The table below explains the costs that you would have paid within the reporting period.

How did the Fund perform last year?

Longer-dated municipal bonds generally underperformed shorter-dated bonds during the 12-month period ended June 30, 2025 (the “Review Period”). Shorter-dated bonds benefited from cuts to the fed funds rate, while yield on the long end of the yield curve climbed (lower prices) in response to an unexpected rebound in consumer-price inflation.

The Fund provided a total return of 0.08% during the Review Period which was lower than the Bloomberg Municipal Bond Index (the “Muni Index”) which provided a total return of 1.11%.The underperformance of the Fund was due primarily to the fact that the Fund held had an average nominal maturity of 14.88 years versus 13.30 years for the Muni Index. Additionally, unlike the Fund, the Muni Index does not reflect any expenses and/or transaction costs.

During the Review Period, the Fund’s use of its current investment strategy did not cause the Fund’s performance to deviate materially from the manager’s expectations. We do not plan to change the investment strategy of the Fund substantially in the upcoming year.

How has the Fund historically performed?

The following graph compares the initial and subsequent account values at the end of each of the most recently completed 10 fiscal years of the Fund. It assumes a $10,000 initial investment at the beginning of the first fiscal year in an appropriate broad-based securities market index for the same period.

The Bloomberg Municipal Bond Index is considered representative of the broad market for investment grade, tax-exempt municipal bonds with a maturity of at least one year. The index is unmanaged and reflects no expenses. It is not possible to invest directly in an index.
